HARD WORK AHEAD FOR UNION ATHLETES

Meet Foes in Baseball, Track and Tennis.

NINE GOES THURSDAY

Will Play Wesleyan and Pelham Bay on Opponents' Own Ground.

With the baseball team leaving Thursday afternoon for Middletown to cross bats Friday afternoon with Wesleyan and Saturday with a team representing the Pelham Bay Naval Training Station, the track team will open the season at home with Williams while the tennis team will contest for honors with Springfield. It is to be a big week-end in Union athletics and bats and racquets have been cracking and the turf is being torn up in anticipation of the contests.

The victory over R. P. I. has given the baseball team new incentive to prosecute the schedule. Of Wesleyan little is known except that they claim to have a whirlwind twirler who recently pitched a three-hit game against Amherst. The other departments, however, have suffered from enlistments much as the Garnet has, although the Bay State college has been able to mould into shape a pretty dependable team.

With regard to Pelham, Union has been through the ropes and knows what to expect of her opponents. The sailors have had their inning and carried home a victory. It now begins to look as if the Garnet were to do some business, for Pelham will find a far different team Saturday from the one she defeated last week.

The line-up will be the same with few exceptions. Smukler will replace Getman at center. There will be thirteen men on the trip beside Coach Tamsett and Manager Gorham. Four pitchers, Joe Brucker, Beaver, Hughes and Laskowski will be taken, together with George Brucker as an extra fielder. The batting order will remain the same.

The team will leave on the 4 o'clock limited Thursday afternoon for Albany, arriving in Springfield at 8:10, where the men will put up at the Worthy Hotel. Friday morning the team will journey to Middletown, leaving directly after the game for New York. The night will be spent at the Cumberland Hotel and the following morning will find the Garnet men at Pelham Bay Park.

Coach Tamsett wishes to announce that there is a good chance for candidates who have as yet not made trips, to make the team. Things are still in an unsettled condition and there may be many changes before the season is over. "Keep at it, and don't get discouraged," were his words to the squad.

LOUD CHEERS GREET NEWS OF CHANGE IN FROSH CAPS

Freshman caps will be a bit harder to wear and a bit easier to distinguish next year. Thus decreed the Terrace Council at a recent meeting the result of which decision was reported to the student body Monday by Frank D. Moynihan, president of the Council. The garnet button atop the headgear of next year's Frosh will be twice the size of that which has decorated the caps of this year's Freshmen, that is, it is to be one and one-half inches in diameter instead of three-fourths of an inch. It was only about a year ago that the cap itself was cut down materially in size. Sympathy for next year's entering class seemed sparse Monday when the announcement of the change was made. There was enthusiastic cheering, of which noise 1921 made its full share.

TRACK TEAM IS ALMOST READY TO MEET WILLIAMS

Visitors' Strength Is Hard to Determine.

Preparations for the Williams track meet have been extensive for the past two weeks. Every available man has been urged to come out and as a result some very good progress has been made. The added hour of daylight has been used to good advantage by the sprinters and long distance men, several of whom will give the Berkshire athletes a hustle to keep up the pace.

Jones is as good as ever in the pole vault, and Hoag, if his rapid improvement continues, will sail over the bar in fine fashion. Rapelje, Mace, Lyman and Beekman in the high jump make up a combination that will be hard to beat. Just how the Williams team stands is rather hard to determine, but judging from her entries, many of her veteran cinder men have gone, since the greater part of her squad is made up of underclassmen.

At any rate, Saturday will tell the tale. The events and possible entries are as follows:

100 yard dash—Williams: Olson, Martyn, VanSaun, Coddling, Kieser, Allen; Union: Northrop, Mace, Potter, Hoag, D. Lyman.

220 yard dash—Williams: Olson, Martyn, VanSaun, Coddling, Kieser, Allen; Union: Northrop, Mace, Potter, Hoag, D. Lyman.

440 yard dash—Williams: Olson, Martyn, Coddling, Kieser, VanHoesen, Stewart; Union: Stevens, D. Lyman, Mace, Potter.

880 yard dash—Williams: VanHoesen, Parker, Stewart, Lattmer, Penfield, Crofts; Union: Allerton, Van Ness, Dewey, Zehfuss.

Mile runs—Williams: Parker, Joslyn, Fowler, Stewart; Union: Dewey, Rapelje, Allerton, McLean.

PRESIDENT URGES CADETS TO STAY FOR JUNE REVIEW

Upon announcing to the student body Monday the good fortune of the college in having for its guest and reviewer of its battalion Maj. Gen. March President Richmond urged strongly that the cadets of the Union R. O. T. C. make a special effort to be present at the exhibition drill. The fact that the drill is to be held nearly one week from the date of the close of examinations will make it necessary for those who wish to participate in the drill either to stay or to return from their homes. "It would be a misfortune," said Dr. Richmond, "if the number of men in the battalion should be so small as to make a review of the body of little use. I think the college and the battalion requires of its students and members some such small sacrifice as this. I want you men to feel that it is not only a duty but a privilege to be here."

NEW BUILDING NOT TO BE FINISHED THIS SPRING

Furniture Fails to Arrive and Opening is Postponed.

There will be no formal opening of the new Butterfield Memorial Chemistry building this spring, according to a recent announcement from the building committee. The delay in the completion of the building has been due to difficulties encountered by manufacturers in shipping furniture and equipment. Although the exterior is about to have its finishing touches and all that has been possible to do has been done to the interior, the new building is still far from ready for service. Good news was received a few days ago by the building committee when it was informed by a manufacturer that a consignment of furniture had been shipped. The arrival of the shipment, however, will not greatly facilitate

IDEALISM SUBJECT OF HOERNLE LECTURE

Technical Language Makes History of Idealism Hard.

TWO PROPOSITIONS

That Ideas, Not Matter, Really Exist, and that Universe Interprets God's Mind.

The subject of Professor Hoernle's lectures of this week was "Idealism." "The difficulty in dealing with the history of Idealism is," he said, "the technical language used by the propounders.

"We shall consider two propositions which have been set down by them. They are, first: That ideas exist, not matter, or to be is to be perceived; and second, that the whole universe is but the interpretation of the mind of God.

"The existence of error presupposes the existence of truth. If, therefore, our human view is imperfect it is capable of correction. Therefore, the mind comes to see the universe omnisciently, that is as God sees it.

"Our consciousness is never momentary. There is always a succession of experiences. For example, the appreciation of music would be impossible without the perception of the succession of sounds. The single tones exist in the mind after others have been sounded. Just so in perceiving any object. We are aware of its temporal relations and existence both in the past and future. Obviously the proposition that to be is to be perceived is false.

"Sense data is in constant flux. To receive a correct idea of an object we must sort out the sense data received from the same. On the other hand we may experience a series of impressions from a single item of sense data. This is an achievement of our knowledge and powers of interpretation. This whole consideration was lost sight of in formulating the proposition that to be is to be perceived.

"At present idealists have discarded this idea. The deeper problem of idealism is to establish the validity of religious and artistic experiences.

"Some thinkers assert that right and wrong are not to be found in the nature of things; that they are mere delusions, though necessary delusions of the human mind. In fact they say that all the higher experiences are without basis in nature. This is what idealism has sought to overthrow.

"Kant tried to find a solution by saying that the facts we know and the ideas we know are separate but both are necessary. Science deals with phenomena but faith explains their essence."

Next weekly lectures will be concerned with the problem of evil.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 8, 1918.

A Fitting Climax.

Particularly gratifying is the announcement that Union is to be visited and its battalion inspected by one of the nation's greatest war leaders, Major General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, during Commencement Week, now only about four weeks off. It is hardly probable that any other college in American will be so honored at the close of its first critical war year. Nor is appreciation of this honor confined to our underclassmen. Rather, it is felt more strongly by the alumni and those of the faculty who have been foremost in the work of organizing and furthering the development of the battalion. Few of us here realize how closely Union's older sons have been watching the progress of the college's new-born military unit. But that they are intensely interested in the manner in which their Alma Mater shall bear this part of her war burden becomes apparent to the least thoughtful of us when we remember the generous gift of the uniforms for the men last spring and the splendid stand of colors which the alumni presented to the battalion nearly a year ago.

Let us remember, therefore, that the achievement of our military organization in entertaining our distinguished guests of next month, represents the culmination of more than a year of untiring effort on the part of the "men behind the 'cadets': the military instructors, and the committee on military affairs, and the alumni, especially the latter.

It is too early yet to review with satisfaction the work of the battalion for the year. We do not yet know what sort of an opinion of us as representative of the American collegiate officer reserve these military authorities will carry away with them. We do know, however, that real progress has been made by the military department this year, as evidenced by the favorable result of a recent official government inspection. Moreover we are aware that the battalion has advanced to a stage where an examination by such men as General March may be expected to turn out favorably.

Among other forces which have been at work bringing our unit ever nearer the far-off goal of perfection the attitude of its members has of a surety been prominent. Ever since the entry of our country into the war last year, enthusiasm for Union's military unit has never been wanting. New duties have been taken up and conscientiously discharged. Best of all, discipline, that quality so difficult to instil into sizeable groups of American youth, has been maintained in the Union battalion. It is a fortunate circumstance. And the most surprising and pleasing fact about this maintenance of discipline is that it has been achieved through the willingness of the governed to be governed. For the potential rebel in the ranks there has been no threat of a court-martial, of confinement or of walking guard. The Union cadets have been told the right thing to do and they have done it.

There have been exceptions to the rule. Last week there was a notable one. One man disobeyed orders because he thought that the Union military authorities had no power to punish him. He found, to his surprise, that college and battalion together really did have the right to expect obedience from him and that his offense merited a punishment which would stigmatize him for the rest of his days. Ignorance of the law excused this offender; it is far less likely to do so for the next. But there probably will be no next. For all but a very few unchastised children there need be no military law; Union spirit and battalion spirit are enough. For the unspanked ones there is the authority of the United States Government, behind which stands the United States Army.

GORHAM TAKES OVER MANAGERSHIP DUTIES

Karl H. Gorham, '19, Business Manager-elect of THE CONCORDIENSIS, took over Monday, from former Manager Kennedy, '18, the duties of the office by virtue of a motion passed by the Publication Board held Monday afternoon. Kennedy's contemplated departure for the Fourth Officers' Training Camp hastened the change in managers. On retiring from office, Manager Kennedy presented a report of business of THE CONCORDIENSIS from April 8th to May 1st, which was pronounced satisfactory by Prof. Opdyke, of the auditing committee. Prof. Opdyke was re-elected a member of the committee.

ALUMNUS DIES IN BED AT HOME IN HORNELL

Local friends of Harry P. Willis, who graduated from Union in the class of 1897, have received word that Mr. Willis was recently found dead in his bed at his home in Hornell. He was a prominent figure in football and other athletics here.

Mr. Willis, following his graduation, was employed in state canal construction work and later was employed by the highway commission, in which capacity he became well known throughout the state as an engineer and handled many large contracts.

CHEM SOCIETY PREPARES TO INITIATE NEW MEN

At a meeting of the Chemical Society held Tuesday afternoon a committee consisting of August John '18, Clarence Krusie '18, Edward Beaver '19, and Varmer Lyman '19, was appointed to make arrangements for the initiation of new members next Monday evening. At that time Herbert Barlow, Warren Gale, William Greely, Warren Titus and James Van Deusen, all of '20, will receive a welcome as members of the society. After an address of welcome to the new members by Dr. Salathe a light feed will be served.

As an outcome of war-time speeding up of schedule, Lehigh University graduated a class of eighty Seniors on Saturday, April 13th. The Junior, Sophomore and Freshman classes will remain in session until May 15. To accomplish this shortening of the college year, the usual Christmas, Easter and other intermissions were utilized for class work.

POPE TRUE CLASSICIST DR. HALE TELLS CLUB

Dr. Hale addressed a well attended meeting of the Classical Club last night on the subject, "Classicism and Pope." During the address Dr. Hale brought out the fact that the English people at the time of Pope were more interested in party politics, which were in their infancy, than in antiquity. Pope, however, was the one poet of the age who had a real enthusiasm for the classics. He studied them and translated some chief works such as those of Homer and consciously tried to imitate them. His meter was not truly classical although it did have a quality of order and regularity which was the aim of ancient poets. But insofar as Pope was a keen student of man himself rather than of nature and a believer in the cosmos of nature, he may be said to have been instilled with the spirit of the classical writers. Dr. Hale quoted passages from Pope's best known poems to show just where Pope's classicism lay. The lecture was followed by an informal discussion. A business session followed.

TWO MORE ENLIST FROM SENIOR CLASS

Two more members of the class of 1918 have enlisted in Uncle Sam's fighting forces. Henry A. Clarke, of Williamsport, Pa., has been sent to a radio school at College Park, Md., and John D. Brown, of Bridgeport, Conn., has enrolled in the Naval Reserve. When called Brown expects to be sent to a technical school for a course in steam engineering either at Pelham Bay Training School or at Stevens Institute. Both Clarke and Brown are members of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

No word of what action has been taken by the War Department on the recommendation of five members of the Senior class to the Fourth Officers' Training Camp has yet been received by the local military department. The names of the men to be recommended were telegraphed to the War Department Saturday night and a reply is expected within a day or two. Three of the candidates are still members of the battalion, while the other two are past members who are now in the camps for drafted or enlisted men. A number of Juniors have been named by Col. Goldman as alternates, and, although the government regulations regarding the Fourth Camp specify that Senior members of the battalion only are to be admitted, it is possible that the quota of eight men allowed the Union organization may be filled by the addition of three Juniors.

The battalion plunged hard yesterday and today into the task of getting itself in condition for the exhibition drill scheduled for June 10th, when the unit will be inspected by Maj. Gen. March, Chief of Staff. The class for officers and non-commissioned officers began its study of camp-making by learning how to pitch a shelter tent under the direction of Cadet Lieut. Townsend. Although the instructor averred that a well-taught file could pitch its tent in not more than fifty seconds, it was at least ten minutes before the first rookie team finished driving pegs and aligning the tent. In a subsequent drill, the tent-pitching will be made a subject for a general battalion problem.

Yesterday's battalion drill was conducted chiefly on the long slope running from Ellis Hospital to Lenox Road. Excellent cover was afforded by the grass-grown hazards of the former Mohawk Golf Club course, of which the field is a part. The cadets, however, did not fight so well yesterday as did their forefathers at Bunker Hill. It was their first experience with an imaginary enemy and they had trouble locating him. Patrolling was insufficient and unskillful. But the men learned several lessons and were resolved to put them into effect at the next opportunity.

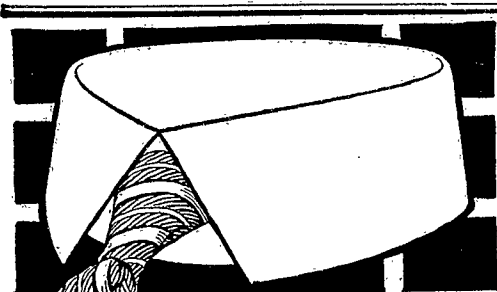

Col. Goldman has instructed all those who expect to stay for the exhibition drill on June 10th to hand in their names immediately at the military office.
