HOPE FOR HOCKEY INCREASES STEADILY

Enthusiasm Over New Project Sweeps College.

DR. RICHMOND
INSTIGATOR

Athletic Board Will Aid If it Can Afford to Do So.

Great enthusiasm has been developing among the students, in the Athletic Board and Interfraternity Council with regard to the feasibility of a hockey team this winter. The movement originated with Dr. Richmond and was met with favor by the student body if the large number who have signified their intention to come out is any fair criterion of their feelings in the matter.

The students themselves were the first to start the ball rolling by the selection of a committee composed of Hooper, Bull and May which will be better prepared to determine the possibility of seeing the plan through after the meeting of the Athletic Board next week.

The Interfraternity Conference has caught the spirit and is planning to raise funds by subscribing the proceeds of the dances after basketball games which have formerly gone to the bleacher fund.

No one in college has been more enthusiastic over this movement than Dr. Richmond himself. Indeed, it was he who initiated the idea. He made the following statement to THE CONCORDIENSIS Friday: "The project looking toward the making of a hockey rink on the campus is one which I have long favored. I am anxious to encourage every healthy outdoor sport and especially one which will give an opportunity for open air exercise during the winter months. I shall be glad to support the movement in any way that I can."

C. A. RICHMOND.

Although nothing can be decided definitely until the meeting of the Athletic Board next week, it is certain that this body will do everything it can afford to build and maintain a rink. Prof. Opdyke personally is one of those enthusiastic concerning the prospect of having a Union hockey team.

The following awards were made at a meeting of the committee of the Athletic Board:

B. F. Hance was given his letter for cross country work.

"SWIFTY" BYNNER—YOUNG, AMERICAN— SHADES' CHOICE FOR FRIDAY'S BOUT

"Now Francis, don't get mussy," replied the first shade, whose lofty dome-like brow was offset by a pair of kindly though shrewd eyes. "You know I wrote Hamlet—but to enlighten you concerning the cause of my trouble, I need mention only one name—the monicker of Rabindranath Tagore."

"What is that, a new soothing syrup?" inquired Francis, a meagre and crafty brother shade. "No," answer Will,—"an irritant."

"Yes, yes, go on; what may this mean?"

"You must know, O worthy scrivener, that the heavy-weight poetry championship of the white race is threatened. Kid Tagore is meeting all comers and has recently staged an exhibition bout in New Atlantic, receiving all gate receipts and a percentage of the moving picture rights. O Francis, he claims the diamond belt! O for a Jess Willard who can punish the pentameters! O for a white champion to redeem our laurels!"

The beetling brows of Francis contracted. At last his eyes shone with inspiration.

"Will," he cried, "how about Young Alf Noyes?"

Will shook his head mournfully. "No good, Francis; Sailor Masefield slipped him the kayo in August, 1914."

"How about Tennyson?"

"A dead one," was the gloomy reply.

"Who, then," sighed Francis. "I'm going balmy."

For a moment there was silence. Then Will jumped to his feet, the light of triumph in his eye.

"I have the man!" he shrieked—

"Swiftly Bynner—young American, takes punishment well, fights at 133, quick on his feet, uses both, a big attraction—O Baby!" Exhausted by his exuberance, Will sank into the nearest throne. His laurel had slipped over one eye.

"Huzzah, gadzooks, quite so. what ho, you're right, he's one of the ones," cried Francis.

"Stage it in Schenectady, Bynner signs to appear at ringside at eight o'clock Friday, December 15th.. Schenectady's a live sporting town. Let's put tickets on sale at Cluett's and the college office today—Students, teachers, professors, and professional critics, fifty cents; regulars seventy-five."

PLATTSBURG MEN MEET TO ORGANIZE

Plans to Continue Military Work
During Winter.

A meeting was held on Tuesday evening of the Plattsburg men connected with the college. Plans were discussed for continuing military work through the winter, and an executive committee was appointed consisting of Dr. Hale, Theodore Palmer, Jr., '18, and John H. N. Potter '19. Among the matters discussed were tactical walks, rifle practice and the possibility of military work in the college. It is understood that an organization of the Plattsburg men in Schenectady will soon be formed, and the college will probably work in conjunction with it.

Peaslee, Morris, Streeter, Watts, and Stebbins received aUa's for running this fall, whereas A. S. and A. W. Ladd received numerals.

Numerals for participation in class football were awarded to Eisenbery, Poeppel, and Stein and for class track they were given to Northrup, Watts, Lyman and Davidson of 1919 and to Hughes, Beekman and Streeter of 1920.

VAN EPS IS POPULAR AT YALE, LEHIGH, AMHERST

Season's Most Popular Pieces and Cirker's Refreshments Assure Soiree's Success.

No inexperienced orchestra will furnish the music for the Sophomore Soiree next Friday evening. Fred Van Eps' company of banjo players, consisting of two banjos, a saxophone, a mando-bass, traps and piano is much in demand for functions in and around New York City, as is shown by its return engagements at such colleges as Yale, Princeton, University of Pennsylvania, New York University, Rutgers, Lehigh and Amherst. Mr. Van Eps has assured the committee that his music will consist of only the season's most popular pieces, a goodly number of which will be of the Hawaiian variety.

To those who attended last year's Soiree the name of Cirker stands for refreshments of the highest quality. A large number of men on the campus have already signified their intention of attending the Soiree, and many more are expected to do so, since it is the prevailing opinion on the hill that every student should support the dance as a function representative of Union College. Tickets are $4.00 per couple, and $2.50 for stags.

BASKETBALL SQUAD IMPROVING STEADILY

Captain Scoby, Roof, Yovits, Haubner, and Galbraith are Varsity So Far.

YOVITS SHOOT-ING BASKETS

Game With Clarkson Tech. on Thursday.

Every man on the squad is working hard to improve the Garnet five. The usual schedule of practice is two twenty minute periods between the varsity and the second team. During the fore part of the week these practice games have been aggressive from the start. The varsity has been victorious for the most part in these games but the second team has put up a strong fight. The regular men who have been playing on the varsity are Captain Scoby, Dow Roof, Yovits, Haubner and Galbraith. Hathaway was used yesterday on the regulars as a guard with Yovits. The change at first did not work so well as Hathaway was brought from forward to guard, but the combination worked better with practice.

The second string men who have been coming strong are Beaver, Cassidy, Jones, O'Brien, Peasley and Rosekrans. Jones, a member of the first year class who played with the Albany High School five last year, and Cassidy of 1919, showed up well in practice yesterday.

Yovits' basket shooting from the foul line, has been good. Beaver has been playing his usually good game and is fast rounding into condition. O'Brien and Peasley are also playing a fast, steady game and will make good material.

The varsity itself is in pretty fair physical shape according to Coach Dawson, but there is still room for advancement in all fundamental parts of the game. The first game of the season is scheduled for Thursday of next week, and the tickets will go on sale at Quinn's drug store Thursday of this week. The game is with Clarkson Tech.

DEBATING.

Of the many exchange publications which may be found at THE CONCORDIENSIS office, there is scarcely one which from time to time does not have a front page story about debating. In one college fifty enthusiastic fellows are on the varsity debating squad, in another the large membership of the societies is commented upon. In short, the other colleges of our class, Williams and Amherst for example, are continuing vigorously an activity which we at Union have dropped.

In the past, debating has had its proper place in our every day life and it has most decidedly proved itself worthy of the time and energy it requires. The ability to express one's views rapidly, accurately and clearly, to grasp and quickly refute the arguments of a competitor, and to stand before an assemblage without losing your head and your vocabulary are acquisitions which should be recognized by every student, athlete or editor, as beneficial.

Not once has THE CONCORDIENSIS had an opportunity to publish more than a brief notice concerning this subject. We have organized debating societies, societies which have, indeed, existed for many decades. But who has heard of them this year? Where are the officers of the Adelpheic and the Philomathean Clubs?

Perhaps, we shall this year have some intercollegiate debates as we have had in the past, but most assuredly they will fail if we do not evince more enthusiasm.

TAKING A MILLION.

Suppose somebody said this to you: "Here's a million dollars, and here's a half million. Which will you take?"

"That's easy, isn't it?"

Well then, suppose somebody asked you this: "Here's a hundred asked you this: Here's a hundred per cent of your life. Will you take that, or would you rather have fifty?"

"That sounds easy too, doesn't it?"

Still, if you think it over, you'll probably find that you, from day to day, from hour to hour, are probably getting just about thirty-three per cent of your life-income. That isn't efficiency; it isn't reason, it isn't business, or pleasure.

Now follow this argument for a few more lines and you'll see why. In the first place, from a purely scientific point of view, what are you living for? Consideration will bring two conclusions, that really are just about the same: You are living for yourself, and you are living for the world. That is, you are living and working, first perhaps, to make your own life agreeable and happy. That is, you want to make enough money to be content; and if you are content, the world is better. Moreover with money, you can help yourself and help the world.

But all the money in the world isn't going to make you any better off than a lap-dog whose wants are satisfied.

You've got to do something else to make yourself happy.

You've got to develop yourself one hundred per cent. You've got to develop yourself until you can get all there is out of life. And to get all there is out of life, you've got to know what's in it, unless you're ready to see what's there. Money won't do it, travel won't do it, business won't do it. Knowledge will!

If you know about things, and understand them a little, if you know why people do things and why they don't, if you know what people think and feel, you can understand your own life. Then you'll get all there is out of it.

Now to change the subject for a moment: Do you know what poets are? You probably don't. You think of poets as dirty-collared, wild-eyed misfits who go around with a quill pen in their hand and a crowd of creditors chasing them. Well, you're wrong.

Poets are people who see things just a little bit better than you do—just the same things though—and say things about them a little bit better than you can.

A poet is a person who gets a whole lot out of life just by using his five senses; and he puts them down on white paper for you to see—and after he's put them down, you say: "Why that's nothing new; I've seen that a thousand times." Certainly you have, but you never saw it quite as clearly before, did you, or got anything out of it?

The best of life is appreciation: you mustn't be an inside without an outside. One of the way of appreciating life is to find out about it. One of the best ways of finding out about it is to go to people who know about it. Poets—because they see better than you—know about it. Therefore, go to the poets—most any of them will do.

Remember, poetry isn't effeminate—Byron died in battle, Shelley was an athlete, John Masfield was a saloon bouncer and a sailor before the mast, Bobby Burns didn't drink eau sucrée. They were all regulars. You can't go wrong to fall in line behind those lads—and others.

CIVIL SOCIETY

Next Meeting.

At a meeting of the Gillespie Society of Civil Engineers held in the Electrical Engineering Building Wednesday night, a section of a level rod with a target thereon was officially adopted as the emblem for the pin which will be worn by the members of this section.

Plans were made for an open meeting to be held on Wednesday, December 20th, at which time several papers on engineering subjects will be presented by the members. All Junior or Senior civil engineering students are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Several new members were taken in at the last meeting and all others who are eligible and who are interested in this society are urged to present an application at once. This is UNION'S youngest society,—help it along!

Y. M. C. A. COLUMN.

On Sunday afternoon Dr. Ellery will speak in Silliman Hall on the subject of "The Immorality of 'Getting By.'"

The service will follow the new plan, that of spending an informal hour around the Hall fireplace.

It is certain that the gatherings will be more cheerful and helpful in every way than they would be if held in the customary place, for the nature of the building will bring the men closer together and allow them to have a more personal touch with one another.

The Battle of Criticism is great. The Battle of the Heart is greater. But the greatest and sorest of all is the Battle of the Will. Study may sway one's understanding, and yet leave one's will lying sluggish, held stationary by its own inertia. It is but poor gain to give one's assent to the case for Christianity, if one does not bend one's will and heart devoutly to the life of a Christian.

—R. F. WELSH.

ARE YOU AN ANYTHING-ARIAN?

It matters not so much what a man's religion is, if he be Catholic or Protestant; whether he be Greek or Roman of the one, Baptist, Presbyterian or what sort of the other. Those differences do not carry as much weight as what HE is. The thing that does count is whether or not a man HAS a religion and his attitude toward it.

A man without a religion is like a ship without a rudder, helpless and at the mercy of wind and wave upon a tempest-tossed sea. He drifts along in a hopeless condition and is carried away on the bosom of the breakers.

He is an ANYTHINGARIAN: not an atheist not an agnostic, not a skeptic, but just an ANYTHINGARIAN.

Indifference to the call of religious life, he drifts from pillar to post; he has no Church home; is not interested in any of its activities, and he is not FOR it, nor is he AGAINST it.

Ask him what he is and he will tell you "anything," which means nothing—about the truest words he ever had spoken.

He aims at no definite target, and his ambitions and enthusiasms are shot at random.

All his efforts and concentrations pass away with the things material, and his life from the cradle to the grave without a religion is fruitless, meaningless and worthless.

All that marks his existence after his heart has ceased to beat is a little slab of marble at the A. C., in Brooklyn.

UNION REPRESENTED AT CORNELL CONFERENCE

Unusually Interesting Speakers
Arouse Great Enthusiasm
About Work.

The fourteenth annual conference of the Student Volunteer Union of New York State, was held at Cornell University, Ithaca, on December first, second and third.

Practically every higher institution of learning in the state was represented in the conference. Such speakers as Joseph Robbins, a pioneer in the volunteer work, Paster William Fetler of Petrograd, Russia, and Mr. Samuel A. Inman, member of the Latin American Congress and friend of President Carranza, were there to address the delegates.

On Saturday afternoon the delegates were afforded the opportunity of a "sight-seeing" tour of Cornell. This was followed by a banquet and a social hour. Every delegation gave its yell and sang its Alma Mater.

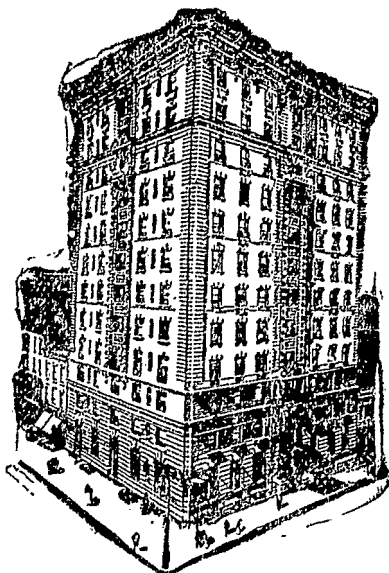

Delegation meetings began Friday night and ended with the farewell meeting on Sunday evening. Delegates were entertained in Ithaca or at the fraternity houses upon the hill.

Union's delegation at the Conference was composed of John H. Imrie, Irwin A. Buell, Franklin Mosher, Forrest E. Carr, Wilson O. Clough, John W. Hoag and William Jameson.

CALENDARS SELLING EXTREMELY RAPIDLY

Cover and Contents Are Unusually Attractive.

The annual calendars, published under the auspices of the Press Club and put on sale recently, judging from their rapid sale, met with great favor. These calendars have been distributed to the different fraternity houses and to the college office. Already only a small number remains.

The Press Club feels confident that this year it has the finest specimen of the calendar-maker's art which they have ever been able to offer. The covers are of gray leather embossed with the Union seal and contains four leaves on which, in addition to the calendar proper, may be found pictures of the 1916 teams and many of the beautiful scenes of the campus.

THE IMMORALITY OF "GETTING BY"

Dr. Ellery Expected to Give Interesting Talk Tomorrow in Silliman Hall.

Tomorrow's Vesper Service with Dr. Ellery as speaker, will be held in Silliman Hall at four-thirty o'clock.

Dr. Ellery, well known locally and popular with the students, will have a message that no man can afford to miss. It is one that concerns not only the life during college years but forever afterward. It concerns not only college work, but the vocations of a lifetime. It bears upon a question that is continually coming up in the mind of everyone, and upon which all do far too little thinking.

"The Immorality of 'Getting By'" is Dr. Ellery's subject, and in view of his experience with students in positions where there is always a temptation to do no more than to "get by," and because of his interest in and study of the matter, he is fully competent to handle the topic in an interesting and profitable way.

A cordial welcome is extended to every student to hear Dr. Ellery at this time. An hour could not be spent more profitably, and it is hoped that a large number will take advantage of this unusual opportunity.
