START WITH BIG SPURT.

Team Plays Spectacular Game at Intervals—Score 36 to 19.

Union had sweet revenge for her defeats of last year when the Garnet squad soundly trounced R. P. I. Saturday night by a score of 36-19. While the game was unnecessarily rough and far too many personal fouls were made, yet with but few exceptions the home five played rings around their opponents. Ewing, the visitors' right forward, was the only man who was at all successful in solving the Union defence and scoring consistently, and with Jones of the Garnet starred for the evening. Special mention should also be made of the work of Collins and Yavits around whom was centered the Union attack. J. Brucker played his usual heady game, while G. Brucker broke up several rallies of the Cherry and White before they were well under way. This new style of play advanced by the Union coaches was completely vindicated by the manner in which it was able to overcome the handicap of the R. P. I.'s greater weight and put the issue up to a question of speed at which Union had by far the upper hand. The roughness of the game prevented perfect team play by either side, but as a general thing the ball was in the home team's possession. Time and again the visitors appeared to be at a loss and only for the poor luck the Union forwards had with their basket work the score would have been far more one-sided than it was. R. P. I. took many long shots but failed to score.

The scoring was done in spurts after several minutes of pass work. Union drew first blood one minute after the game when after both sides had failed on a free throw, J. Brucker caged the sphere on a short pass from Yavits. Union then added five more points on a foul shot by Collins and floor baskets by Jones and Yavits. With Union 7 points in the lead Troy called time out. The Union pass work was far better than the Cherry

ST. LAWRENCE GAME TO BE PLAYED FRIDAY NIGHT; DANCING WILL FOLLOW

Since it was necessary for St. Lawrence to get another game in order to make their trip here possible and since they could get no other game for Friday night, the St. Lawrence game had to be changed to Friday night. The time of starting has also been changed to 8:30 P. M. The Inter-Fraternity Council has decided to run a dance after the game, although it is not their general policy to run mid-week dances.

The date of February 23rd, which has been open, has been tentatively filled with a team from the Second Naval District at Newport. This team is captained by R. B. Ferre, Jr., who was formerly at Princeton and under the management of last year's Dartmouth management, J. Litchard.

SWART, '19, REPORTS NORTHFIELD TRIP

Almost Every North American College Represented.

OVER 750 ATTEND.

Dr. John R. Mott Chief Speaker at Student Volunteer Conference.

The Student Volunteer Conference held last week at Northfield was attended by seven hundred and fifty men and women representing practically every college of importance in North America. These conferences are held every four years and in peace times their attendance is between four and five thousand, but this year, due to war conditions, invitations were only issued to a limited number.

This conference had been called by John R. Mott with the intention of discussing the ways in which North American students could best act in the critical period of rebuilding which must come after the war.

In the first evening of the conference John R. Mott, himself, delivered an address interpreting the world situation. Few men are in a better position to do this. Not only has Dr. Mott been constantly in the warring countries of Europe, on the battle front, in the prison camps and the hospitals conferring with statesmen and leaders, but even at present he is in direct correspondence with representative men on both sides of the war endeavoring to keep his finger on the pulse of the world.

Dr. Mott spoke as follows: "We are living today in a shaken world. Civilization itself is shaken to its foundations. Commerce, labor, home life and religion all have felt the shock. The Pope lost his one great opportunity. Protestant leaders have accepted false standards approving of a war which in every way is opposed to the ideals of Christ.

"We are living in an overburdened world. The war is costing $150,000,000 each day; 8,800,000 men have been killed, not considering the victims of disease, and civilian casualties. Morally the world is suffering. Forty enemy divisions have been rendered unfit for service due to ravages of immoral practices.

"It is a suffering world—such suffering that its horror brands itself into the brain of every spectator. And this same suffering not only of wound but of hearts and souls will take place in an even larger extent in America.

"It is an embittered world in which old ties are forgotten. Protestant and Catholic battle against Protestant and Catholic. It is an engineering world. Men are asking the how and why and wherefore as they never did before and it is the task of the Chris-

Once more the Trojans have come to our shores and have departed. They came with a purpose, a good purpose, to sack the citadel Concor-diae Quintae, but as good was their purpose so much the better was the action of our warriors.

They did not come over as in the days of yore bringing brass and cymbals with them, but waited until the hour was late and then very quietly entered through our portals. At times they had inclinations to cheer, but not often.

Until 9:30 when the decks were cleared for action, the Union student body was very quiet. Perhaps they were impatient or even restless from the long wait. The arrival of such popular idols as Homer Goff and "Bill" Friday aroused them for an instant. But when the R. P. I. rooters finally arrived and made their presence known, our cheer leader had to be awakened by cries of "C'mon, a yell" before any action could be started. But when the game started there was no stopping of the Union spirit. It was everywhere. Excitement was so tense that a side line fracas was started, but quickly quelled. Later when the time whistle blew, there was a rush, a yell for the team, another for R. P. I. and then the orchestra began to P-L-A-Y and a happy crowd danced.

The R. O. T. C. and Officers' Schools.

(Brown Herald.)

To put an end to the various misconceptions that may have existed, it is not out of place to let Brown men be informed as to the relation of the college R. O. T. C. to officers' schools of the future and the effort of the Brown military department in the matter.

Owing to a ruling of the War Department, only R. O. T. C.'s recognized before June 1, 1917, were allowed to send members to the officers' camps just begun. The purpose of such a ruling was obviously to restrict candidates for the camps to those who had had military training prior to the beginning of the present college year. Mindful of this purpose, the Military Department at Brown is seeking to gain permission from the government to send to the next camp certain of the members of the R. O. T. C. who have had previous experience.

Thus, whatever decision is reached, the military department has done all in its power, and responsibility will rest simply with the War Department. It is of course to be greatly hoped that some Brown men will be admitted into the next officers' school both from the standpoint of individuals concerned. Many men have stayed in college no doubt with the hope of getting a commission when of age, and if disappointed in this hope, they will accept the alternative, however less attractive, of enlisting in the ranks. The accepting of this alternative will, moreover, be all the more likely if General Crowder's wise and just recommendation be embodied in legislation to the effect that men become liable to the draft upon reaching 21. But whatever may be the merits of the case, and whatever may be the injustice done to those who stayed in college, urged on all sides to wait until the age for commissions and now possibly finding that avenue of service shut against them, it is well to remember that the War Department is alone responsible and that the Brown authorities are doing all in their ability to gain the coveted recognition.

FOURTH CONCRETE LECTURE COMES TUESDAY.

The fourth of the series of lectures on concrete and its uses will be given on Tuesday, January 15, 1918, at 8:00 P. M., in the Union College Electrical Laboratory, by Mr. F. W. Hoff, a highway engineer who has recently been connected with the construction of concrete highways in the Panama Canal Zone. The subject of the lecture is the "Construction and Maintenance of Concrete Roads," a topic which has been uppermost in the minds of most highway engineers since the beginning of the extensive use of heavy trucks in connection with transportation.

The lecture, which is open to the public, is given under the auspices of the Union College Gillespie Society of Civil Engineers, and will be illustrated by lantern slides.

DRAMATIC CLUB'S PLANS WELL DEVELOPED.

Nearly all plans for the presentation of the Dramatic Club's play have been completed, the parts have been shifted to fit the players and the place for presentation has been decided on. Bill Tell was elected to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of Jimmy Hulshizer, and Tubby Divine was appointed to take Hulshizer's part as Susie, the maid. Hochuli is taking McGee's part as the butler and Gregory is taking that of Sergeant Kerney, which was originally given De la Vergne. Carr has his original part back again, that of Pembroke, an Englishman, which is one of the leading parts. Marvin King and Julius Davidson are playing the parts of chorus girls, that of Davidson's being "Vera Vernon," a very famous stage beauty. Bill Tell will probably still hold the position of business manager as well as that of president, but as yet no stage manager has been elected.

Rehearsals are held regularly every Saturday and Sunday afternoon and Monday evening, the next one being at 8 o'clock tonight in Silliman Hall.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY HEARS DR. ELLERY.

Toluol Is Extracted from Illuminating Gas in Experiment.

At a meeting of the Chemical Society Friday afternoon, Dr. Ellery gave an interesting lecture on the process of extracting "Toluol" from illuminating gas. Toluene is at present an important product since it is used extensively in the manufacture of high explosives.

In the course of his lecture, Dr. Ellery performed the experiment by passing illuminating gas through oleic acid. The product thus obtained was next distilled by steam and toluol given off which had to go through several other processes of refinement before ready for use.

Toluol was discovered by Pelletier in the oil obtained in the manufacture of gas from resin and later Deville prepared it by distilling tolu balsam, when the name Toluol which has been anglicized to toluene. It is prepared commercially by the fractional distillation of the light oil distillate of the coal-tar distillate.

His going leaves the Garnets in the hands of Assistant Manager William R. Barnett. R. E. Bellinger, '19, also a member of the Pyramid Club, took the examination for aviation service today. He played right end on the football team this year and was a member of the class basketball team.

and White, while Jones was starting for the Garnet. When play was resumed Jones was penalized and R. P. I. scored its first point. G. Brucker added a floor basket to the home score and then Ewing made good on the first floor shot. Jones, getting the ball under his own basket, carried it up the floor and made a pass to J. Brucker who scored without interference. Richards sot R. P. I.'s second floor basket and Collins shot a foul for Union. Yavits made his first contribution to the Garnet's total and Ewing made the third floor basket. R. P. I. secured the period. Just before time was up Collins made good from the side and the first half ended with Union leading 16-8. Both sides speeded up at the opening of the second half and several close shots were missed by both sides before Collins scored the first basket. From then on the play was very hard, but through it all Union scored almost two points for every one secured by R. P. I. and at all times had the game well in hand. Jones was put out on fouls and Peaslee substituted, while Flandreau was substituted for Ewing by R. P. I. The latter had been doing four-fifths of the work for the visitors and was pretty well done up. During this period Union secured ten floor baskets while R. P. I. scored four, but the Garnet failed to improve any of their free shots and Richards made good three times for the Cherry and White. Foul shooting was the Garnet's weakest point, but with Capt. Yavits in condition this department is usually cared for. The game ended with Union leading 36-19, and the first of last year's accounts was squared.

The Trojans were delayed and the game started at nine-thirty.

tian man of tomorrow to answer them. And finally it is an unselfish world. Men and women from their sufferings have opened their hearts as never before, giving generously to the less fortunate.

"And all of the misery of the world to prepare themselves for the task of today is calling to the student world the reconstruction. The whole of Europe is in the melting pot. Europe now is plastic. Through faith, and hope and love she must be led to better things."

In closing Dr. Mott brought out the idea, which time after time was placed before the conference, that in the remodeling after the war Christianity is coming to a crisis. And Christian men and women in the colleges must prepare it, save it and they must begin their preparation now.

Dave Porter, former Yale football star and now a secretary under the International Y. M. C. A., emphasized this need of immediate preparation when toward the end of the conference he prepared a series of resolutions.

"We must combat the spirit of hatred. We must preserve the spirit of peace even in war. We college men must determine to live Christ's ideals at all times and in all places it must be in evidence in every activity on the campus. It must prevail in our fraternities, in relation of fraternity and non-fraternity men, between the rich men and the poor, between our race and other races, between ourselves and the men who serve us."

The resolutions he proposed were: (1) To enroll 200,000 students in the study of Christ life. (2) Through personal work to win these men to a decision to live Christ's teachings. The resolutions were adopted and taken as the aim of every student body in North America.

Interesting both from the educational and missionary standpoint were the lectures on different continents given by returned missionaries from South America, Africa, India, China and Japan. Even more striking were the three minute-addresses given by foreign students representing thirteen different countries, Syria, Siberia, the Philippine Islands, Japan, Argentina, China, Brazil, Salvador, Armenia, Volunia, Uruguay, Porto Rico and Ceylon. All pleaded that the spirit of Christ might be taken to their people, but particularly striking was the attitude of the little Chinese girl, five feet tall, who wished the people at the conference were all her children, so that she might send them out to all parts of the world to teach the gospel. And even more interesting the spirit of the Armenian who declared the purpose of his people was to know Christ even at the risk of their lives. The cruelty of the Turks had not embittered him. He declared he still had friends whom he loved among the Turks.

SCHEDULE MAKING HAS ITS DIFFICULTIES

Baseball Management Is Forced to Make Some Changes.

After having a schedule ratified by the Athletic Board, the baseball management was forced to make changes which were due to the stirring times in which we are living. Rutgers College decided to close their doors three weeks early, causing them to cancel the last five games on their schedule and us to lose our Commencement game. The Rutgers game has been moved up to Saturday, April 27th. and the University of Rochester has been secured to fill the Commencement date. The opening game which was to be played April 19th at Columbia, is yet unsettled, but it is hoped that arrangements can be made to play either at Columbia or Princeton.

The Easter southern trip, which was erroneously reported some time ago as assured, has been practically called off. Easter being so early has made it difficult for the management to secure games without losing a great deal of money by the trip.
